Maserati quattroporte used 2014

SKYHOOK SUSPENSIONUsing magnetic rheological shock absorber, the Maserati Quattroporte ride is both surefooted and supple, giving it a sporty feel for the grand tourer. SPORT PERFORMANCE MODEOne sports mode button press freezes the quattroporte sedan suspension and gives 8-speed automatic transmission faster shifts, the main highlight here is the opening of exhaust flaps, which usually remain closed for up to 3000 lapses. The sound of the engine alone is worth the admission price. The salon is a magnificent blend of leather, wood, chrome and optional carbon fiber accents. Maserati Trident looks everywhere, from the middle of the steering wheel to the oval centre of the analog clock. In addition to analog gauges, Quattroporte has a 7-inch TFT display in the device cluster and an 8.5-inch touchscreen. The car can be equipped with a heated wooden steering wheel, and the back of the living area can be configured to carry two or three passengers. Perhaps the biggest change is the increase in the leg room of the rear seats due to the longer base of the 124.8-inch wheel. 2014 Quattroporte has a strong appeal to its distinctive design, which showcases the ribbed grille, which is dominated by the traditional Maserati Trident logo and the automaker's signature three chromed holes on each front wing. The flowing lines highlight the car's advanced wheel base and overall length. Although there is a large price difference between the GTS and S Q4, both cars are unforgivable, except for badging and exhaust nozzle procedures - the V8 GTS has a double trapeze design compared to the V6 S Q4 double round slats. In addition to the new twin turbo engines, Quattroporte uses a smooth 8-speed ZF automatic transmission. All sedans also have the I.C.E. mode (higher control and efficiency) function, which ensures a softer throttle response and shifts to increase fuel economy and improve grip in slippery conditions. Other notable standard equipment includes a rear-view camera and adaptive cruise control. Among the new quattroporte options is a 4-passenger configuration with rear comfort seats separated by a larger leather-covered and wooden trimmed console. This $7,290 option can be complemented by folding rear tables ($3,350) and 4-zone climate control ($3,180). There is also a $5,100 Bower & Wilkins sound system with 15 speakers and an optional rear seat entertainment system that boasts two 10.2-inch LCD screens attached to the front bucket seats. The 2014 Maserati Quattroporte has two brand new twin-turbocharged power plants, a 3.8-liter V8 GTS and a 3.0-liter V6 S Q4. Both sedans have a kind of throat exhaust note and responsive performance that you expect from Italy's exotic. Incorporating Maserati engineering and design, both engines are actually produced by Ferrari. 8-speed ZF automatic transmission channel engine power for rear GTS and all four Quattroporte S Q4 wheels. 3.0-liter twin turbocharger V6 (S Q4)404 horsepower @ 5500 rpm406 lb-ft torque @ 1,750 rpmEPA urban/highway fuel economy: 15/24 mpg 3.8-liter dual-turbocharger V8 (GTS)523 horsepower @ 6,500 rpm524 lb-ft torque @ 2,250 rpmEPA city/highway fuel economy: 13/22 mpg 2014 Maserati Quattroporte S Q4 starts at $102,500, but can be easily selected up to more than $120,000 by adding options, including one of the two sports packages (the most expensive is the set, including 21-inch wheels for $6,650), having a headliner trimmed alcantara ($1,710) and a premium package. $3,010 upgrade, which includes a wood steering wheel. The top-line Quattroporte GTS offers $140,500 base price and fewer options as a result, but when equipped with a 4-passenger configuration with perforated leather, rear tables and optional Bowers & Wilkins sound system, it can easily top $160,000. These prices are straight to the top tier of the Mercedes S-Class, BMW 7 Series, Jaguar XJ and Audi A8 sedans, but that's what Maserati offers is an element of exclusivity.
